GRAND JURY PROBE TO BE REQUESTED

Investigation of Charges Convicted Slayer Was 'Framed' Will Be Asked Today, Turner Declares.

Odie V. Fluker, convicted slayer of Eddie Guyol, one-time lottery king, yesterday lost the "Battle of Affidavits" waged by his attorneys to obtain a new hearing when Judge James C. Davis, of Fulton superior court, overruled the mo tion for new trial.

Defense attorneys immediately announced the decision would be appealed to the state supreme irt within the 20-day limit.

Police committee and grand jury investigation of alleged charges that Fluker was "framed" will be requested today by the defense, Russell G. Turner, chief defense ounsel, said last night.

Turner last Friday conferred with C. C. Chamberlain, foreman of the grand jury, with regard to a possible grand jury investigation of charges made by Captain Ben W. Workers Ask 35-Hour Week and $18 Minimum Wage.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(P) House members, setting out to-day to draft regulatory legislation for the textile industry, immediately received a request by the United Textile Workers for a 35hour week and an $18-a-week

Representative Ellenbogen, of Pennsylvania, Democrat, and Frank J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers, skilled labor.

Representative Ramspeck, Georavenue gia, Democrat, said he wanted it understood he was not pledged to a single line of the measure. He was joined by Representative Welch, California, Republican.

The revised measure would set up a national textile commission of three $10,000-a-year members to administer the law and to prescribe regulations. Armed with quasi-judicial powers, the commission also would have power to limit production whenever it found the output exceeded the demand. The bill provides such limitation be accomplished first by elimination of night work.

To encourage compliance with its provisions, the bill would prohibit government purchase of tex-tiles produced in violation of the law and forbid loans by any gov-ernmental agency or instrumentality to noncomplying firms.

Authorities said this prohibition is broad enough to prevent national banks lending money to such firms.

APPROVED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 10 .- The senate today passed the George bill providing the privilege of World War veterans of renewing expiring five-year level premium term government insurance policies for another five-year period.

Sponsored in the upper chamber by Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, practically the same bill passed the house some days ago, so that with the President's signature it will become law before June 30, when the old five-year

Without this amendment it was feared by the Georgian and other members of congress that many veterans would be unable to carry their insurance beyond the expiration date of their old policies.

LAWS TO REPLACE U.S. CO-ORDINATOR Waited From Court FOR CAPITAL, LABOR

Reform Legislation To Follow Vain Effort To Cooperative Peace.

WASHINGTON, May 10.— President Roosevelt will abandon efforts to unite industry and labor in a big, happy family under federal guidance and will not extend the life of the office of coordinator for industrial co-operation when it expires on June 30, it was understood tonight.

tion when it expires on June 30, it was understood tonight.

The first and only co-ordinator, Major George L. Berry, of Tennessee, was sworn in as a senator today to replace the late Nathan L. Bachman. In addition to the two federal offices he now holds, Berry is head of labor's Non-Partisan League which took an active part in President Roosevelt's campaign for re-election.

Labor Reform Legislation.

Administration leaders were said to feel the need of Berry's office had been obviated by the supreme court's validation of the Wagner act and by additional labor reform legislation the President will submit to congress soon. This legislation probably will guarantee workers maximum hours and minimum wages and seek to benefit industry by curbing unfair trade practices and cutthroat competition.

Three-year-old David William Lively is happy these days and rides in his express wagon which he offered to exchange for a pair of braces so he could walk and run like other boys. An Atlanta man heard of his undeveloped legs and through his aid and that of business associates and friends, medical help has been given David and he has had his first fitting for the braces. He is the son of Mrs. L. F. Lively, of Brookhaven, Georgia.

Finances Forbid Care.

His small, undeveloped legs are the result of an operation on his spine performed when he was just 14 hours old. Straightened family finances have forbidden proper medical observation, operations and treatments, but today there is happiness and joy in the home of David's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. TRAIN LENGTH, SAFETY AND COSTS

A bill to limit the length of freight trains to 70 cars, and of passenger trains to 14 cars, has been reported favorably by the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, and is before the Senate for action. The Committee took this step without public notice and without hearing. Yet the public welfare is affected and the public has a direct and vital interest in such a measure.

On the basis of 1936 traffic it would increase the operating costs of the railroads about $90,000,000 per year. The railroads have but one important source of revenue, their receipts from freight and passenger traffic. Such a staggering increase in operating costs could be met only by a corresponding increase in freight rates and passenger fares. For this reason the question is one of much concern to the public.

Advocates of the bill have referred to it as a safety measure. It would mean the operation of more trains and would increase the hazards of accident, injury and death, particularly at grade crossings.

Money running into billions has been expended during the past 15 years for the purchase of large locomotives and heavy rail so that modern efficiency methods, including longer trains, might be utilized. Passage of this measure would impair service to the public, render futile the investment in modern power, and cripple the railroads.

Many organizations and individuals have advised their Senators of their opposition to such restrictive legislation.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

court of the United States.

Lawyers participating in the conference were at odds as to how eventually to get the issue before the supreme court. Some were of the opinion that the states interested might file directly with the su-preme court. Others contended that it could be filed with a circuit court of appeals while still others held that the fight must start in a district court and reach the supreme tribunal through the regular route.

Rivers Speaks.

Discussing briefly Georgia's connection with the fight, Governor Rivers said:

Rivers said:

Veteran Dirigible Skipper Gives Graphic Description of Catastrophe.

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 10 .-(A)—The Hindenburg's flaming dive to destruction was described graphically to a commerce department investigating board today by two expert eye-witnesses, but neither was able to offer a conclusion as to the mysterious cause of the dirigible disaster which claimed 35 lives.

One of the witnesses, Com-mander Charles E. Rosendahl, leading American lighter-than-air authority, intimated strongly, how ever, that in his opinion natural causes, such as static electricity or lightning, were not responsible and the secret of the disaster lay within the great ship.

William F. Von Meister, executive vice president of the American Zeppelin Transport Company, agent here for the Germany operating firm, confined his testimony to what he observed when flames suddenly engulfed the ship with a safe landing seconds away.

Von Meister's witness stand account of beholding a "very strong light in the upper fin" before he saw any flames excited considerable speculation at first that the light might have been a reflection from a hydrogen fire already rag-ing within the hull before any signs of it appeared on the enve-

He explained later, however that he meant the light was visible on the overcast sky at the fin and was probably due to flames on the top of the envelope which he could not see from his position on the Rosendahl definitely placed the outbreak of the hydrogen fire on the upper aft surface of the 800ot long silver envelope.

Both witnesses concurred that the ship approached her landing Thursday with usual maneuvers. last dissolves and does not strike Rosendahl added the atmosphere conditions were, in his opinion, "entirely satisfactory" for a landing, and the ground crew was carrying out its assignment in the trical machinery aboard the ship

After hearing the two witnesses the three-man investigating board and its staff of technical advisors inspected the heavily guarded of the wreckage of the Hindenburg, then Akron, carefully studied the moving pictures made of the disaster, and adjourned until Wednesday.

It was decided to hold no hearing tomorrow so that crew survivors and navy officers may attend funeral services in New York for those of the ship's personnel who perished.

Mayor Hears Short-Term Note Suggestion To Speed Improvement.

Proposal to launch the entire waterworks improvement program at once by issuance of short-term revenue bonds, was being studied by Mayor Hartsfield yesterday.
Plans for renovating the waterworks system over a five-year period with funds from increased water rates have already been announced but W. Zode Smith, head of the waterworks depart-ments, yesterday conferred with the mayor on completing remodel-ing and repair in a shorter time.

Smith said he was informed a legislative bill was passed recently authorizing cities to issue short-term bonds against city revenue and proposed that Atlanta, if possible, issue revenue bonds to expedite work on the waterworks system. Hartsfield asked City Attorney Jack Savage to study le-gality of the suggestion.

Newest Cruiser Bears Georgia City's Name Fish Inspection, Plus Georgia Tax Take Effect Soon

> Enforcement of Georgia's commercial fish inspection law, over which members of the Florida legislature recently threatened a reprisal tax against Georgia peaches, will begin shortly, officials of the state wild life division announced yesterday.

The law will be enforced by 54 deputy protectors appointed Sat-urday, and the work will begin as soon as complete instructions can be forwarded to them.

The law requires each wholesaler of fish, except those dealing principally in fish from fresh water streams of Georgia, to pay an annual license tax of $200.

It also provides for inspection of fish in transit from other states to insure proper icing.

The flare-up in the Florida legislature over the tax resulted in a conference at Valdosta between Governor E. D. Rivers, along with other state officials, and a number of Florida officials who protested that the tax discriminated against Florida fisheries.

Members of the Georgia delegation said they believed the Florida objection arose from an erroneous interpretation of the act as requiring payment of the tax by transporters of fish, whereas it applies only to wholesalers having places of business in Georgia.

The Georgians contended the tax and inspection requirements were passed chiefly as health measures to prohibit sale of spoiled

A LOGICAL AWARD

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has been suggested as a logical candidate for the next Nobel peace award. No man in public life today has done more to deserve such acknowledgment of his contributions to world peace.

During his quarter of a century of public service, Secretary Hull has consistently worked for equal treatment of all nations and has made workable the Golden Rule in international relationships.

His reciprocal trade agreements with the various nations of the world have promoted that free flow of commerce which is the greatest factor for the maintenance of world peace. He has always opposed secret treaties, believing the people themselves should be as fully informed as possible on all international issues and should, eventually, make the decision as to compacts between their own and other

His aim has always been to end those trade agreements which throttle the commerce of a nation and bring poverty and hunger to her peoples. He believes such conditions are the primary breeders of war.

He has frequently stated, "If goods don't cross international frontiers, troops will cross." He has directed his every effort for reciprocal trade agreements, bearing out the truth in his oft-quoted maxim.

Recognition of his service by the award of the Nobel peace prize would not only give a deserved honor to Secretary Hull, but would advance the cause of peace by emphasizing anew the policy of which he is an outstanding cham-

A GOOD TIME TO ROAR

Benito Mussolini, premier of Italy, on Sunday assumed, once again, his favorite stance upon a balcony and, while 500,000 Italians cheered, roared forth a fresh defiance to the world at large. Allusions to Great Britain, more or less thinly veiled, were frequent in his tirade and there can be no doubt the speech constituted Il Duce's interpretation of that dangerous diplomatic sport euphoniously known as "twisting the Lion's tail."

Premier Mussolini, in indulging in his roaring at the present time, displays wisdom. For many reasons Britain is anxious to avoid serious controversies at this time.

Furthermore, the British Lion is notably slow to arouse to action. He has, all through history, suffered much "tail twisting" with patience astonishing. That there is a limit to his good nature, however, is notorious. And, once having been aroused, it is equally notorious that he pursues his course inflexibly to

If Premier Mussolini's "tail twisting" tactics persist, there is strong likelihood he will have scant excuse for "roaring" in days to come.

SHALL WE SHARE OUR HELIUM?

The controversy over the question as to whether or not the United States should sell helium gas, which is produced only in America, to all comers, is somewhat similar to the heated discussions in the early part of the last century over the unrestricted admission to this country of immigrants from across the seas.

It was held then that the country's national resources would be sapped for the benefit of other nations and "we will become one vast fleshpot, harboring the human offal of all other civilized nations. Progress will be impossible unless we standardize the quality as well as the quantity of our immigrants!"

Popular at the time, the idea has now been shown as the opposite of the truth. We gained some undesirables who made this country a synonym in foreign lands for racketeers, kidnapers and other lawless and uncultured inhabitants. But for each one of these we gained many citizens who were ahead of their times, who could see the injustices of their native governments' philosophies, and these people contributed materially to making this the strongest, wealthiest and happiest of the fam-

Now these same nationalists visualize a future conflict in which great sky fighters spray death and destruction over America while being supported with gas bought from us in peacetime.

The human race as a whole moves constantly forward. Like a tortoise it is, with periods of debacle like the last World War, when it seemed that civilization would destroy itself with its own creations, but always sanity returns, and the march of progress passes its former mark before there comes another capit-

DR. JOHN M. READE

Dr. John M. Reade, for 30 years professor of botany at the University of Georgia, is dead. In his passing the south loses one of her most eminent educators, a pioneer in research who contributed a large part of that knowledge of Georgia flora, as well as the wider science of life, upon which so much of modern progress is based

His memory will live as long as there is a survivor of those 30 classes which graduated during his service at the university.

He was a man who insisted upon good work always. To the sincere seeker after knowledge he was a real friend, to the student who thought only of completing his course with the least possible effort he was a constant menace. It was said of "Botany Reade" that it was more difficult for the dilettante to "get by" in his classes than in any others on the campus.

Education would mean more and be of far greater value were there more professors with the respect for the subjects they teach that was Dr. Reade's, and with his courage to "flunk" every student deserving such "flunking," regardless of how few were left to make passing marks.

FOR A FULLER LIFE

Art has been defined as the creation of beauty. Whether it is with the brush, the chisel, the pen or the tools of the artisan, creation of beauty in any form entitles the creator to the appellation of artist.

The Carnegie Library of Atlanta is presenting a series of exhibits of the works of living American painters. These examples of the work of the artist upon canvas are visual demonstration of a growing ability and a growing appreciation of the vital part art, in its truest meaning, plays in our lives.

The man or woman who does not enjoy the sight or sound of created beauty is lacking in one of humanity's most precious assets. It was of these it was written, "They have eyes, they see not." In a world so filled with loveliness as this, it is the ultimate in misfortune to be unable to appreciate beauty, whether natural or the result of the trained genius of man him-

Every Atlantan will find something that will add to his progress in that most gracious of all the arts, the art of good living, in the exhibitions now showing at the Carnegie Library.

DEVELOPMENT OF PERSONALITY

In a recent magazine article, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick shows that it does not pay for the individual to let himself drift, even though environment is unfavorable. Such an environment, he points out, may, after all, be a blessing in disguise.

Dr. Fosdick says in part:

A consulting psychologist told me recently that most cases of emotional maladjustment are due to the fact that people will not accept them-selves. They resent their limitations. They want to be someone else. They keep day-dreaming about what they would do if they had another's chance. And so, disregarding their own possi-bilities, they never make anything worth while out of themselves, . . . Rebellion against your handicaps gets you nowhere. Self-pity gets you One must have the adventurous daring to accept oneself as a bundle of possibilities and undertake the most interesting game in the world -making the most of one's best.

In a battle with the Saracens in Spain, so the story runs, the Scots threw the heart of Robert the Bruce ahead of them and then with all their might fought toward it. That is the method of procedure. Take charge of your life, hurl some ideal and hope ahead, and then fight toward it; organize your living around a purpose. . . . A friend of mine landed in Boston a half century and more ago. His old Scotch father had told him that he was of less than average ability. He hegan his life in America as a foundryman and he roomed over a saloon. Such was his exist-What he made of it, however, was a great life, for he turned out to be George A. Gordon, one of the best scholars Harvard ever graduated. For over 40 years in the Old South church in Boston his pastorate was one of the most notable for intellectual quality and spiritual influence in the annals of American churches. His existence was what he found; his life was what he created.

Three factors are necessary for the development of the sort of personality that Gordon possessed, Dr. Fosdick emphasizes: Imagination -what one would like to be; common sense, there is no use in a round peg's imagining itself fitted in a square hole"; and, finally, one must have courage.

"Imagination, common sense and courageeven a moderate exercise of these." says Dr. Fosdick. "will produce remarkable results."

THE LIQUOR STORES OPEN

(From the Montgomery Advertiser.)
It is the spirit and purpose of Alabamans to put alcohol, normally an outlaw, under a measure of control. It is the purpose of Alabamans to make alcohol pay its just share of the cost of government. Alabamans have at last admitted that alcohol cannot be exterminated by law—it must be controlled by the individual who likes it well enough to buy it.

It is the prayer of all decent Alabamans that practical temperance may be achieved. Liquor has its uses, it is a social evil only when it is abused. The problem is the excessive drinker and the racketeer. Isolate the excessive drinker and the racketeer is unhorsed.

Our problem as a society is to discourage excessive drinking and to defeat racketeers. All others are innocent, and there is no point in trying to discipline them. They discipline them-

Let us keep an eagle eye on the racketeer, let us as a people make scornful faces at the ex-cessive drinker. Now that liquor can be bought legally, there is no sport in mocking the law. Let us do all things decently and in order. Above all, let us enforce the law!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS By PAUL MALLON.

GUN POWER WASHINGTON, May 10.—England is rejoicing over the good business of her coronation, while launching her tremendous armament program. Mussolini snubs mighty Britannia by withdrawing his London news agents and staging an empire day of his own in military fashion. Hitler lays low, but he and Mussolini secretly are pushing to end their joint Spanish war while the British are busy celebrating. This is 24 hours of news from Europe, full of kings, dictators, displays and guns.

Military men may be inclined to overestimate the importance of their profession, but their practiced eyes measure the importance behind most of this news (and news that is likely to come from Europe) in terms of guns more than kings, dictators or displays. To them, international relationship has been based on gun-power during the recent era, and is already changing on the basis of still more gun-power.

National wealth and commercial trade which formerly established the supremacy of nations are not primary influences now. The key to conditions, and the future, they say, may be found on the bitter proving ground in Spain.

CHANGE Their hasty glance inside the situation runs like this:

Britain is likely to reassert her supremacy in the European diplomatic world as soon as her tremendous rearmament program gets well under way. (Mussolini will not snub her 12 months hence, they say.) The dictators got ahead of her in armaments during the last few years. The Ethiopian and Spanish affairs found

But grave technical weaknesses have lately also developed among the forces of the dictators in Spain, crippling their self-assurance to such a degree that they are unlikely to start anything serious. They will continue to bark, but cannot afford to bite.

. The most serious thing that has happened to them is the swiftly developed superiority of the Russian air force. General staffs in Berlin and Tokyo are said to stand in awe of it at present, which may account for the lack of belligerent news from both capitals

What may come of it all in the end is not the most obvious thing, war, but the thing now considered least possible, disarmament. If Britain gets herself into a position to force peace, disarmament will again become a popular subject.

Thus, the crazy cycle of events may yet end at the beginning.

RIFLES The Spanish war really showed the experts as many deficiencies as advances in the art of war. It proved no effective new weapons of death have been developed since the World War, but tremendous strides have been made in improving instance, it has become evident in recent Spanish fighting that the French have developed an automatic rifle for infantrymen. The gun is believed to be somewhat on the pattern of a new rifle just introduced in the American army. The recoil has been reduced so that a soldier can shoot the eight bullets without changing his sight, or shifting the bolt to reload.

The new French gun is a .30-caliber and apparently is a very recent invention, as it is not yet in standard use.

AIRCRAFT Anti-aircraft weapons have been greatly developed.

The Germans had the most effective ones in Spain, but the real secret of their effectiveness seemed to be that they were manned by experienced Germans. Spanish Loyalists are using French guns, which probably are nearly as efficient, but their weapons were not so well handled.

It is estimated that about 80 per cent of all airplanes brought down by the Rebels were shot down by anti-aircraft guns. This probably is a high tribute to the Russians who were flying for the Lovalists. The most effective Russian plane is a light bomber which carries four machine guns. It is deadly against troop concentrations and has caused General Franco's forces much trouble.

TANKS The Italians and Russians seem to be about even in their development of tanks. The Italians have a light, fast model which will scoot over almost any type of ground. The Russians have a heavier one which carries guns large enough to penetrate the Italian tanks. The Germans have spent much time lately in improving their tank. They have a high-powered automatic gun which is, in fact, a super-machine gun. It will penetrate even the heavy Russian tank, which is immune to ordinary rifle and machine

EFFICIENCY The artillery has developed no new weapons. The French .75 and the German .77 are thundering at each other in Spain as they did at Verdun. Recent fighting also shows the French have lost none of their skill in handling field

Developments in tactics are slight. The zig-zag barbed wire trench still seems to be the best defense. Airplanes and motorization enable swifter movement of troops. This necessitates greater protection in the rear, less concentration of troops, more shifting of

It is apparent from all this that the troops nowadays must be mechanics, capable of operating improved automatic weapons of

It is also apparent that the military experts have learned as little more about making war as the statesmen have learned about making peace. (Copyright, 1937, by Paul Mallon.)

British journalists have been less discreet for they gave stirring descriptions of the invincible legions in their dashing advance to the rear pursued by the Communist rear pursued by the Communist rabble and followed that incident with word-pictures of the Duce's heroes in flight before a platoon of Spanish ladies.

It appears that the conquering hosts of the new Italian empire took one look at the Spanish ladies, threw away their rifles—pur-chased with gold from their moth-ers' wedding rings—and jumped into the sea to escape death or perhaps a fate which is said to e even worse.

They did not wait to ascertain he ladies' intentions.

In retaliation for this publicity and for frequent mention of the words Caporetto and Adowa in the British press, the Duce has withdrawn all the Italian journalists from England, a sad blow to the British race. The words Caporetto and Adowa strike an unpleasant note in the Duce's soul. They are not fighting words, exactly. In fact, they are quite the reverse and if Mussolini could extend his authority to the rest of the world he would abolish Caporetto and dowa utterly.

British journalists are ornery about some things, however, and whenever the Duce threatens to unleash his invicible legions against Great Britain they inquire hether he means the same sort of invicibles who wrote the names Caporetto and Adowa in large, f not exactly lustrous letters in ly to the rear in Spain and more threw away the rifles purchased with their mothers yedding rings, and jumped into he sea pursued by the Spanish ladies

The Italians lost a whole army at Adowa 40 years ago in a fight with a barefoot tribe, but captured he town last year in their great defensive war 3,000 miles from home. This time, the barefoot warriors were out of town so the conquest was merely an occupation rather than a fight.

At other places where fighting was unavoidable the invincible legions generously yielded to native African troops, the honor of dying for the new Italian empire.

FAIR ENOUGH When Everybody in Town Is Making Money, It Is Easy to Get Your Share

By ROBERT QUILLEN. Europeans and Asiatics who now visit America for the first time find much to deplore and criticise, but their judgment is uni-formly though unintentionally flattering, for all agree that the most remarkable and impressive characteristic of our people is hap-piness. In no other land is the spirit of happiness so apparent to we have our share of misery and wretched discontent. There is bitter poverty in places; there is conflict and heartless competition that strains the nerves and takes the joy out of living; and there is shame and disgrace and vice and the tear-stained wages of sin.

But the stranger going to and fro and up and down in the land is most impressed by things new to his experience, and chief of these is the endless panorama of happy faces.

He searches deep for an explanation and misses it because it is

Women and girls outnumber men and boys, and the happiness women and girls outnumber men and boys, and the happiness of their sex, nowhere else so apparent as in America, automatically doubles the total sum of happiness visible to the stranger.

Millions and millions of the happiest women on earth—with the prettiest ankles and the whitest teeth and the surest poise to be

Why are they happy? Because they have nice clothes and money in their purses, perhaps. But chiefly because they are free—free of fear, free of tyranny, free of insult and shame and the debasing consciousness of inferiority, free, as nature made all creatures free, to do as they please without let or hindrance or dread of punish-

Few realize how fortunate they are, for they have no bitter experience to provide contrast; and some abuse their privileges, as mortals are apt to do; but the general effect is the thing that counts and it is something to make the heart rejoice.

A man is our town says without bitterness that the chief duty of man is to earn money for his women folks to spend.

Well, money is useless if you can't spend it and the proof of sensible spending is in getting your money's worth.

Women are playmates now instead of playthings. They are comrades and good scouts. And surely money is well and wisely spent if it makes them happy and thus provides an atmosphere of happiness that benefits the whole nation.

Veterans' Service Officer Seeks To Keep Pensions Out of Welfare Body.

L. T. (Pat) Gillen, state vet-erans' service officer, announced yesterday a campaign to have pay-ment of Confederate veterans' and widows' pensions continued through the facilities of his office, rather than through the new Pub-

Potency of Wine 'SEPTEMBER MORN'

A technical problem of wine- Paul Chabas' Masterpiece making is causing the Georgia Revenue Commission no small amount of head-scratching in administering the new state wine tax

The act permits naturally fermented wine, which chemists say can not contain 1 ore than 14 per cent alcohol unless fortified by additional alcohol.

The act also levies two classes of taxes, one for wine of 14 per Chabas portrayed on canvas huncent or less alcohol content, and dreds of nude girls and young another for wine containing from 14 to 21 per cent.

So far as "foreign" wine is con-cerned, the problem is eased be-cause the commission has nothing to do with the manufacture of it. Domestic wine makers informed the revenue commission the proper way to fortify wine is to "natural," say peach, wine and mix it with peach brandy. But to make peach brandy, the producers have to distill peach

"Terribly. How about you?"
"If you had told me," Norman said with mock impressiveness, "that there could ever be such complete paradise as this, I should have said that you were a very pretty girl—but a terrible liar."

Esther surveyed the room which contained not a single stranger and she was overcome with the luxuriousness of it all. "This is the loveliest place in the world," she declared, and she meant it.

"It's more than that. It's the only place in the world. And we're the only people."

"Just us in the whole world." "Darling." He kissed her tenderly. Then he uddenly stood up and faced her.

She hung her head in pretended disgrace. "I forgot to tell you, darling, that I left all the food home in my trousseau."

A Pygmy Queen Was Captured.

That region, as they learned, was the home of pygmies (also spelled "pigmies"), folks with brown or reddish-yellow skins. One day some of Stanley's men went into a forest and, seeing some went into a forest and, seeing some pygmies, began to chase them. One of them, the wife of a chief, was captured and taken to camp. We are told that she was "of light brown complexion, with broad round face, large eyes and small but full lips," and that her height was about four feet and four inches

That was a rather good height for a pygmy woman. Some of the men are shorter than that, and the average height of the men is only about four and a half feet.

Going back in history, we find that a Greek historian wrote something about them 2,400 years ago He told about five young men who had gone exploring on the Libyan desert and had come back with

> Not many persons in Europe believed that Africa really contained pygmies until explorers reached the heart of Africa in the nineteenth century. On a later date, Stanley's men captured more of the dwarfs, four women and > a boy.

> "One of them." wrote Stanley. "had small, cunning, monkey eyes, closely and deeply set. The others had large round eyes, broad foreheads, round faces, small hands and feet."

Twenty of the dwarfs had been seen stealing plantains which belonged to the natives of Indepuya. Plantains are very much like bananas, though not so sweet, and make an important part of the food supply in central Africa. It is a common thing for pygmies to take fruit which is being cared for by the large-sized African natives, but they give service in re-turn. In our next story we shall have more to say about them.

Atlantan Will Enjoy Cruise To Lands of Vikings and Russia

By Sally Forth.

ATLANTA friends will enthusiastically welcome Mrs. Margaret White Hancock and her attractive young daughters, Mary and Virginia Hancock, when they arrive June 1 from Sea Island, where they spent the winter at their beach residence, "El Sueno." Mary and Virginia have been among popular students at Sea Island school, where Mary was honored by her election as president of the student body. Mrs. Hancock has enjoyed daily golf games, and is constantly in demand with a wide circle of friends among Sea Island residents.

Far too short will be the Hancocks' stay in Atlanta, where they will be with Mrs. Hancock's mother, Mrs. Robert H. White Sr., at her Ponce de Leon avenue home, for Mary and Virginia will leave in early July for Rockbrook Camp to spend the remainder of the summer, while their mother will leave soon afterwards for a fascinating cruise.

After spending a few days in New York with friends, Mrs. Hanfirst visit Eidfjord, a picturesque village on a remarkably beautiful flord. Thence the Gripsholm will sail down the coast to Gothenburg, Sweden's busy seaport town, then to Copenhagen, colorful capital of Denmark. From there the boat will follow the lanes of the Baltic, dropping anchor at the Island of Gotland, where Visby, the capital, is like a trip into the distant past.

Stockholm, Sweden, noted for its architectural marvels; Helsingfors, Finland's capital, surrounded on three sides by the sea; Leningrad, erstwhile city of the czars; and a return to Goth-enburg, are all included in the colorful experiences of the pas-

When Mrs. Hancock returns to New York she will go to visit her Sea Island neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hume, at their country place, Hollyrood Farm, just out from New York. Visits with other eastern friends will also be enjoyed by the popular Atlantan before she returns here in mid-

EVERY year when freshmen members of the Pirate Club give a progressive dinner before the annual Pirate dance, they have a cocktail course first. Fruit, shrimp or tomato Juice cocktails, you know. Patrice Poole offered to have this course at her home on Luliwater road, with Coribelle Mason and Mary Jo Brownlee as co-hostesses.

Several days later, Patrice approached the president, Bungie Fuller, a bit worried, and asked, "Bungie, what kind of cocktails do you think I ought to have?" do you think I ought to have?"
Surprised, Bungie said, "Why, just any kind, Patrice. It doesn't matter." "Well, I talked it over with my uncle," said Patrice,
"and we think champagne will be a little expensive." Bungie's laughter stopped Patrice, and the worred freshman was told that clude drinks at all. Just fruit, or something like that.

MARTHA DE GOLIAN had as her guests over the week end the most attractive sisters from Mexico City, Virginia and Lorna Littlejohn. The girls were admired at all the social gatherings they attended during their visit, and were spectators at the horse show, in which Martha rode off with several ribbons for her skilled horsemanship. Virginia and Lorna are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Littlejohn, and their mother is quite a well-known writer, using her own name, Josephine Keizer her own name, Josephine Keizer LittleJohn. Her latest book, "Dark Moon," will be published in serial form next month in the Cosmopolitan magazine, and she has many more fine novels to her credit. Both Virginia and Lorna are talented in singing and piano, so they are most congenial with Martha, who, as you know, has such a beautiful voice and is musically inclined.

Martha and her guests left yesterday for Annapolis, Md., where they will visit Commander and Mrs. Frank S. Blasdel until after June week at the United States Naval, Academy. And what a wonderful time they will have going from one social gayety to anwonderful time they will have going from one social gayety to another, escorted by handsome

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By ELY CULBERTSON. Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

THE NO TRUMP RESPONSE. The one no trump response to a take-out double does not always show a stopper in the opponents' suit. It is the standard medium used to show a hand which contains about one and one-half to two honor tricks with no five card or strong four card suit to show. The player who has made the take-out double should refrain from raising the no trump contract unless he himself has a stopper in the suit adversely bid. Without this stopper, the doubler should rebid in some suit. Now, if the responder actually had the suit stopped, he may rebid no trump. A response of two no trump to partner's take-out double also shows about two honor tricks, but also must guarantee a prob-able double stopper in the opponents' suit.

TODAY'S HAND.

Here is a hand in which one player outwitted his opponent by superior duplicate bridge strategy. South, dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

South's pass to four clubs was quite contrary to all conventions of bidding, but, in duplicate, was shrewd strategy. With such a long suit and a raise from partner to the four level, it was an odds-on chance that if the opponents were to persist with diamonds, North-South would take few, if any, club tricks. It also seemed highly probable that the opponents, with their superior suit, would not permit a game contract in clubs to stand ly don't," he says.
and South had reason to doubt "But here's someone who does," and South had reason to doubt that a five diamond contract could be defeated as much as two tricks.

JO-JOTTE POINTER.

The declarer at Jo-Jotte rarely should draw trumps. He is too likely-to lose the last trick and the 10-point bonus that goes with it. But once in a while he should lead a round or two of trumps.

One typical case is when he has a solid side suit and can run the rest of the tricks, after drawing trumps. Another is when he has high cards in the side suits and has no fear of losing the lead. The object is to capture the opponent's possibly valuable trumps and then play the hand as though it were no trump. Sometimes it is not necessary to draw all the rounds, depending on the number of sure winners in declarer's hand. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

JUST NUTS

ALBANY, N. Y., Sunday.—It is hard to realize that Thursday evening at 7:30, Seattle time, I took to the air. I reached Newark only half an hour late, crossing the entire continent in less than 24 hours. I have had two days in the country since then.

Not long ago someone asked me why I liked to fly. From his point of view the only reason why anyone would want to fly would be to save time and, after all, the time saved was frequently of very little value. On this question of time I am willing to own that most of us don't need, or rather don't use, the time we save to any good purpose. Flying does, however, make it possible to do a great many things we would like to do and perhaps might not think possible. Quite aside from time, there is beauty in flying. For in-stance, we were over the clouds for a time and I could not help but think of how interesting the view was. Some clouds were dead white, others yellowish, others nearly black.

They rose to different heights like Ifills, they opened up into what looked like bottomless chasms. The landscape of clouds is almost as varied as the landscape beneath them, when one can see the ground, mountains or water over which one is flying.

Even more than the beauty of sunrise or sunset, there is a fascination which I think every aviator must feel in conquering a new element. At the bottom of all study and invention lies that constant effort on the part of man to control his surroundings. It is really, I imagine, the instinct which has pushed man from the beginning, gradually upward to a greater and greater effort to domi-

In all these efforts men give their lives, but each loss of life brings something new to the sum total of knowledge to mankind as a whole. Just as I took off, the news came of the horrible accident to the Hindenburg. All of us grieved over the loss of life. It seemed even more pathetic when one realized the journey was really done. Many of us, I imagine, felt a deep sympathy with the German people who have pioneered in this field and won such success, and now must feel such grief and disappointment.

The interesting thing to me was that no one I saw suggested for a minute that we would not go on with experiments on lighterthan-air craft. All the discussion was over what occasioned the accident and how best such mishaps could be prevented. Therein lies the greatness of man. Fear is never allowed to dominate that desire for greater knowledge and as long as mankind retains that spirit we will move forward.

The weather here has been pleasant, but the sun is not as warm as it was in Seattle. It seems curious to see so few flowers after being surrounded by such an abundance of them out there. All seems to go well with the fishermen and only among the stay-athomes did I find one or two slight casualties, but I hope my husband will return to find his household all awaiting him in good

Druid Hills Golf Club was never lovelier. That was yesterday. The honeysuckle filled the air with a perfume that was delicate and sweet. The shrubs were green and fresh. The trees moved their new leaves in a soft May wind. Now and then the wind brought the murmur of a babbling brook.

But-alack and alas-the wind also brought the murmur now and then of voices which were saying words — golf words. And they were not pretty things.

The Atlanta open was being played. And Harry Ste-phens wisely kept in the background. It was no time for the club professional to be appearing when his golf course was doing such terrible things to the

They came in sweaty and cross and ill-tempered. And saying rude things about the babbling brook, the rough, the course and their scores. The latter were rather high.

The general opinion around our town is that Druid Hills is a great course for a sociable game. But not such a test of golf. The course showed the boys something yesterday. It growled at them.

The greens, which are not large, were difficult targets. And they were about as fast as War Admiral, the Derby winner.

They wrecked games and tempers.

When the pencils went down on the score cards and there were not "gimme" putts to be counted, the scores mounted. It was a perfect day. Even if the golf was not.

A FEW GOLF MEMORIES.

The talk stayed with golf.

Veazey Rainwater was there, looking on. He recalled a match played there years ago when Cyril Tolley came to this

Matmen Strike In Ring at Key

By JACK TROY. A "horizontal protest," or sit-down strike, was staged by the eight wrestlers on last night's program at the Key arena.

But Lose Issue

Just as the opening match was scheduled to go on, the double quartet of beezer-bruising behemoths marched out of the dressing room, climbed into the ring and assumed various postures of a strictly horizontal nature.

Some 700 fans looked on in amazement, at first, thinking Promoters Roby and Bettis had some sort of stunt up their sleeves. But when Irish Paddy Nolan, his fetching green beret cocked at a belligerent angle and his waxed mustache bobbing at variance with his sharply cropped goatee under the impetus provided by two fast-moving jaws, continued to pop off in the ear of Frank Bettis, the fans took a hand.

"THROW HIM OUT." "Throw him out," the lady fans irilled. "We have to pay to get in here to watch that so-and-so wrestle. Throw him out and let's ee some real wrestlers work. At this point, the protest-joined in by the other wrestlers in a last-

Gerald Walker Hits in 16th Straight Game; Indians Win in 11th.

By THE UNITED PRESS.

Monte Pearson Monday hurled he best game of the major league season, allowing but one hit while the New York Yankees blanked the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 1. After being reached for a single by Rosenthal in the first inning, Pearon was invincible. It was the first Yankee win in five starts and put them in a third-place deadlock with the Detroit Tigers. The Yanks got to Lyons and Chelini for 10 hits, including two home runs by Joe DiMaggio and another four-bagger by Selkirk, his fifth of the year.

Philadelphia and Cleveland remained deadlocked for the American league leadership by winning over Detroit and Boston, respec-tively. The Athletics made it two in a row over the Tigers with a 9-5 decision and Cleveland nosed out the Red Sox, 6-5, in 11 innings. Tommy Bridges suffered his first loss of the year when the A's touched him for five runs in the first three innings. Luther (Bud) Thomas went the route for Philadelphia and distributed eight hits. Hayes homered for the A's and Greenberg for Detroit.

Bill Swift scattered eight hits for a 4-1 victory over the Bees. The Pirates won in the first inning when they pushed three runs across on Dickshot's single, a walk to Vaughan, and two-baggers by Suhr and Todd. Lou Fette went the distance for Boston, allowing 10 hits.

The Cards were beaten, 8-2, by the Brooklyn Dodgers. Van Mungo gave the Cards four hits and struck out six. It was his fourth win. The Cards made four errors which the Dodgers added to eight hits off Harrell and Ryba to win.

Clyde Shoun scattered nine hits effectively in pitching the Chicago Cubs to a 4-3 triumph over the New York Giants. After scoring once in the first, the Cubs clinched the game with a three-run rally in the fifth. Rip Collins and Au-gie Galan hit homers, Collins' with a man on base. Hal Schu-macher went eight innings for the Giants, allowing all the Cubs' runs and 10 hits. He was charged with the loss. The Giants, in third place, are but one game ahead of Chicago. Bucky Walters turned in a four-hitter and the Philadelphia Phillies pounded out a 10-3 decision over the Cincinnati Reds. The Phils collected 11 safeties off Grissom and Schott, including a home run by Whitney. Ernie Lombardi, Cincy catcher, was hit by a foul tip in the third and retired with a split finger.

"And I," spoke up Wimberly Peters, "will never forget Ted Ray on East Lake before the course was turned around, so to speak.
"He came to the twelfth, which was more than 400 yards long. His drive came to rest almost under a big oak tree. It was 180 yards from the green. Ted Ray took a look at it and then pulled out his niblic. A niblic, mind you. And he hit that ball. It went straight up and over that tree. And then," said Wimberly Peters, "the ball seemed to take a course parallel with the ground and set out for the green. And when it was over the green it dropped on it and stayed there. I never saw such a man for hitting a golf ball.

"There was a dog leg on the course. There was nothing else to do but go around. Because there was a house and a cow barn in the way. But Ted Ray asked me how far it was and I told him. So he took out a club and hit the ball over the barn and the house. And when we got there the ball was on the green."

"What is Ted Ray doing now?" I asked of George "He's still in England and still has a golf club there.' "How far would he hit the modern ball with the modern clubs?

"My," said George Sargent, "there is just no telling." And there isn't. Ted Ray was a most prodigious knocker a golf ball. And he hit them before they had the new centers and the new methods of winding them to give them more

'life." And, clubs are better today.

Golfers, generally, are the most honest of athletes in perhaps the most honest game we have which includes definite divisions of amateur and professionals.

The Professional Golfers' Association includes one of the finest groups of competitors sport has known. In fact, the finest amateur spirit I have ever seen is at a professional tournament.

The U. S. G. A. recently has tightened its interpretations an amateur. And it has restated the rule that no amateur may accept hotel or meal accommodations without charge.

The amateur golfer and the professional golfer must pay his way. And amateur golf contains no "golfing bums" to compare with the group generally classified as "tennis bums."

It works a definite handicap on golf. Veazey Rainwater, for many years an official in southern golf, said yesterday the southern association was considering a winter tournament in which each of the 14 states represented would send two teams of two men each. The trouble is getting teams to a tournament. They must pay their own expenses.

THE SOUTHERN WOMEN'S.

The southern women's golf tournament will be played at East Lake next week. And the field is to be a large one and, Hart began umpiring in the for that matter, a very fine one. It includes a half dozen or Maine State league, after playing more who played well in the national last year, three of the for that matter, a very fine one. It includes a half dozen or semi-finalists being entered.

The girls will play the No. 2 course at East Lake, which isn't quite the test and does not have quite the same amount of long distance water holes as does the No. 1 course.

It easily is one of the finest tournaments Atlanta has had the pleasure of entertaining in some years. Few of the outstanding figures of women's golf will be absent. And one of the ineligibles. Miss Babe Didrikson, the professional, will be here as an observer.

causes of the setback, analysts found nothing particularly depressing although, at the same time, little of an especially stim-ulating nature was discernible. United States Steel touched off the slide and eventually broke 100. It closed at 99 1-2, off 4 1-4 net. Other steel losers were Bethlehem at 84, Republic 36, National 83, Youngstown Sheet &

Tube 85 7-8 and American Rolling Mill 34 3-8.

While steels bore the brunt of moderate offerings, and encoun-tered little support at any time, rails, oils, motors, rubbers and a variety of recently strong specialties tipped the scales on the slippery side.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 1.2 points at 67.7. Transfers totaled 779,430 shares compared with 817,240 last Friday. A number of new low marks for the years were chalked up during the listless session. Of 800 issues changing hands 592 were behind minus signs, 83 advanced and 125 were unchanged.

It was said to be a question whether steel group reflected renewed labor controversies faced by independent companies. At least this department apparently ignored figures of United States Steel for April disclosing the largest April shipments of finished products for any similar month since 1929. The aggregate, though, was under that of March.

The magazine Steel pointed out that, while new steel orders were not equaling shipments for the first time in weeks, no apprehension was felt over the quieter situation owing to heavy tonnage already booked. The American Iron & Steel Institute estimated this week's mill operations were up slightly.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.
COURTS & CO.—Some further drifting expected over the next day or so, but upport in leaders should appear very lose to Monday's lows. support in leaders should appear very close to Monday's lows.

BEER & CO.—Monday's setback, which cancelled most of last week's gains, appears to be the beginning of a so-called second-day reaction. As such, it may extend over a period of several days, or it may come to an end within another day or so. In any case we do not think the lows of the year will be penetrated in any great number of cases.

THOMSON & McKINNON—That investment and semi-investment demand was not of sufficient proportions to officet even moderate selling such as that encountered Monday, must be put down as a distinct disappointment to the bull forces.

FENNER & BEANE—Although longer-term business prospects are considered favorable we believe some further irregularity may be witnessed before these prospects become a dominant influence in the markets.

COURTS & CO.—The weather over the entire belt has taken a very favorable turn and we continue in the belief the market will sell lower.

BEER & CO.—We anticipate higher levels in cotton.

THOMSON & McKINNON—With buying incentives temporarily lacking, we are inclined to look for somewhat lower prices. inclined to look for somewhat lower prices.

FENNER & BEANE—Indications are for some lower prices before the market recovers its equilibrium.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Pressure is light and demand limited with no definite trend likely to develop until new crop developments have progressed further.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—With stocks and grains continuing easy, cotton prices were off to losses of about $1 a bale in the late trading.

the late trading.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—With government wheat estimate slightly higher than expected, together with improved weathed since the report was compiled, causes us to anticipate a lower price level.

BEER & CO.—We think crop outlook is quite promising and look for lower prices.

THOMON & MCKINNON—The foreign holidays are apt ot keep trading quiet most of the week, but we feel higher prices are warranted in view of the current crop conditions.

COTTONSEED OIL OPINIONS.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—Cottonseed oil futures market opened lower Monday morning on local and commission house selling. Buying was scattered and in small volume. One of the leading trade houses has been a persistent seller of July and September all day.

Stocks slumped 1 to more than 4 points today, erasing all progress made last week and failing to show any prospects of support. Steady selling developed from the outset, particularly in rails and durable goods, and reached its peak in the final hour when United States Steel broke below 100. Trading volume was approximately 780,000 shares. Chief worry of traders was the failure of support to develop as prices sidled off. There were re-Ready 4½s 50 ww 1

Other low and medium priced carriers tending lower included Illinois Central 4 3-4s, Missouri Pacific 5s "F" and Frisco 4 1-2s. The latter lost nearly 2 points. Convertibles falling sharply on the day included Chesapeake Corporation 5s, Youngstown Sheet & Tube 3 1-2s and New York Central 6s, each of which lost in the neighborhood of 5 points.

U. S. government issues made

U. S. government issues made quite a showing in view of the unusually light turnover. This group advanced 1-32 to 14-32 of a point with all but a few issues participating. Several held even or subsided a little.

Many foreign issues failed to open. Of those that did, the ma-lority slipped a little lower, particularly the South Americans which gave up fractions to a point.

There were several situations that created the uneasiness which prevented new buying from reentering. They included:

1. Reports that some conservative bankers agreed with President Roosevelt on the high prices for durable goods and had sold shares in such companies.

2. Fresh concern over the possibility of a Federal Reserve adjustment of margins with some groups mentioning that margin trading may be eliminated.

3. New attacks on the gold polaging and the polaging and the properties of the next the polaging may be eliminated.

For Investors Who Buy Out of Income

Because such investments are usually in small amounts, the price of the securities to be purchased is important, and low or moderately priced stocks may be the most suitable. Several hundred active stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange are arranged by price brackets, and classified as to industry, with useful data on earnings in a new booklet—"Price Groups." A copy will be sent upon request to accredited individuals.

NO BRITISH NEWS IN ITALIAN PRESS

Correspondents on Way Back to Rome on Duce's Orders.

ROME, May 10.—(P)—Premier enito Mussolini's campaign against the British press swept the London date-line from Italian newspapers today.

For the first time in generations not a line of news from the Brit-ish capital appeared in this city's press; and all Italian newspaper-men in Great Britain were on the way home under orders of Il Duce. The only London date-line seen in Rome was carried by the semi-official Vatican City organ, Os-servatore Romano—the story was about preparations for the corona-tion of King George VI Wednes-

Nor did members of the English colony receive their usual copies of the Times or other London newspapers, with exception of three London papers exempt under Mussolini's ban.

The Italian press carried some comment by German and Portuguese newspapers approving Mussolini's action, giving rise in some quarters to the thought that Adolf Hitler was contemplating a similar more in the rolch lar move in the reich.
